

Asking for 12-Month Behaviour Support Funding

This letter is to help you talk to your NDIS planner about behaviour support funding.

You can give this to your planner at your next plan meeting.

Dear NDIS Planner,

Short funding periods don't always match what's happening.

Sometimes the money runs out before we finish important things.

Support planning happens over time.

We need time to do assessments, write plans, train staff, and check how things are going.

Why is this important?

Behaviour support needs can change.
Sometimes we need more help.
Other times we need less.

Our provider helps us use funding well:

They make a plan for the whole year.
They track the spending with alerts.
They change the plan if we need to save money.

What can go wrong with short or split-up funding:

We might not be able to start supports in time.
There might be gaps where no support is given.
The provider might not be able to do reports or plans properly.

What are asking the NDIS to do?

Give us behaviour support funding for the full 12 months
Don't split the funding into small blocks (like 3 or 6 months)
This will help us get the right support at the right time.

Thank you for your help.
